Meditative Proving

The meditative provings have been in use since the mid 1990's gradually growing as awareness of them grew within the homeopathic community.

Now you can have easy access to the Meditative Remedies in your ISIS system!

There are 3 books connected with meditative provings contained within ISIS Vision, namely :

- ❖ Meditative Proving volumes 1 and 2 (Madeline Evans)
- ❖ Contemporary Repertory of Meditative Proving (Karan Main & Paula Leszczuk)

which are collectively referred to as the Meditative Pack. The repertory is a direct index of the 2 proving volumes and all 3 books provide a complete and comprehensive set. As the name suggests all of these remedies have been proven meditatively. Whereas Scholten employed a Group Analysis for new remedies in his Minerals and Elements books, all of these meditative remedies were proven by an experienced meditation circle. Sometimes channelled information was also received and recorded as directed.

Use within ISIS

The repertory is contained in entirety. You can choose to work exclusively with this repertory which is very nicely presented in a modern appealing design. Alternatively you can integrate its use alongside all the other repertories in your system. The style of the repertory is similar to that of Knerr's Repertory of Hering's Guiding Symptoms, i.e. rather than breaking up proving expressions into individual word parts, the full expressions have been preserved as rubrics.

The 2 proving books are both authored by Madeline Evans and they are faithfully reproduced. What you see on screen is exactly as it appears in the book.

We have researched the remedies carefully, categorised them and provided full colour images of most of the remedies and fully cross referenced them – so you can jump from repertory to remedy to materia medica with ease. New families of Meditative, Gems & Crystals and Colours have been added.

How these remedies came into being

All of these remedies were proved by meditation circles. The leader of a circle knew what the source of the remedy was. In the beginning all participants knew what the remedy was as the purpose of the meditation was not to conduct a remedy proving as such but was done for the group's own spiritual healing and intuitive development. As the provings progressed and as people started to hear about them and other homeopaths started to use them, the provings started to be conducted 'blind'.

At the time none of the participants realised that these new remedies would become as widely known and used as they have become. They did not keep the records that tell us when the provings changed from a known to an unknown remedy. But what was evident was that for most provers, knowing or not knowing the remedy made no difference at all, whilst for others, and one in particular, there was a difference in the nature and quality of the information on the remedy.

“The remedies presented have been drawn solely from provings and do not include anything intuited by individuals outside the parameters of the provings. No extrapolations have been included as to states, conditions or diseases the remedy might treat based on the proving symptoms. I have also deliberately included spiritual teachings related to the remedy pictures, as reading the remedies is in itself a constant reminder of our spiritual selves.” Madeline Evans
